spending
your pregnancy
in a stall ...

You're pregnant and tired, your muscles hurt, and you're crammed into a stall so small that you can't turn around or lie down comfortably. And shortly after birth, your baby is taken away from you and killed.

This is what horses on pregnant mares' urine (PMU) farms endure for the menopause drug Premarin.
